WOODROW WILSON INDORSES HOUSE CAUCUS ACTION

Says Wool Schedule Is Step in Right Direction.

BEST POSSIBLE ACTION

Spends Sunday in Receiving Many Visitors.

States His Position as to Initiative and Referendum and Recall—No Secret Conference, but a Hearty Welcome for Everybody—Some of the Callers—Approves Action of the House Democrats.

Gov. Woodrow Wilson, possible nominee for the Presidency, spent yesterday in Washington, received scores of visitors, indorsed the action of the House Democrats in connection with the woolen schedule, and made plain his position in regard to the initiative and referendum and recall.

WELCOME FOR EVERYBODY.
Open house was kept from morning until night yesterday by Gov. Wilson at the New Willard, and there was a conspicuous lack of star chamber proceedings, closeted interviews, and the like. The doors to his apartments stood wide open all day long, and there was an unintermittent stream of Senators, Representatives, officials, Princeton alumni, newspaper men, and just plain citizens, who wanted to shake hands with the popular university president whose friends want him to retain that title in another capacity.

While a number of prominent Democratic leaders called upon him, Gov. Wilson consistently declined to hold any council of war, and the only time the door to the room in which he received his guests was closed was when an inquisitive breeze came in and swung it on its hinges. His action served to impress the persons who called on him that it is to be his closely followed policy to keep the door to his apartment open to all work for the gradual obliteration of all party lines and to draw the people together as much as possible.

Democrats and Republicans Alike.
While the great majority of the men he talked with here yesterday were Democrats, there was a liberal sprinkling of Republicans, and Gov. Wilson seemed equally glad to see them all.

Nearly every Senator and Representative from the South now in the city called upon Gov. Wilson. Senator Gore, of Oklahoma, spent considerable time in the governor's room, and Senator Martine of New Jersey, was there at different times during the day. Other members of the New Jersey delegation brought in friends and constituents, and toward the middle of the afternoon the informal reception resolved itself into a sort of Congressional levee.

Approves Action of House Democrats.
During the afternoon Gov. Wilson found time to talk with a representative of The Washington Herald concerning the action of the House Democrats in the matter of the woolen schedule.

"The resolution passed by the caucus," he said, "is a very frank statement and justifies itself by showing that the Democratic party is trying to do the best that is possible and practical in the circumstances. I mean that when we are revising a system such as the tariff as a whole we can make compensation of revenue along the lines of the tariff, but we cannot make these compensations except in the individual schedules. That is one of the penalties of the step by step process. It does not seem to me that there is any abandonment of principles in the action taken. It looks to me as though the Democratic principles had been reasserted. While I am in favor of free wool, every industry has been declared for gradual tariff reduction."

States His Position.
When asked to state exactly his position in regard to the initiative and referendum and recall, Gov. Wilson said:

"My political principles are based upon the restoration to the people of the control of their own government, and if in order to regain this control they find it necessary to resort to the initiative and referendum and the recall, I favor those systems, not as implements of everyday use, but as emergency weapons in case the representatives of the people fail properly to represent them."

Incidents of the Day.
The governor rose early yesterday morning and breakfasted with a few personal friends. During the morning A. B. Kelly, a Princeton alumnus; Warren Jefferson Davis, of the College Democratic League; Representative James Cox, of Ohio; Representative Conrad, of Montana, and a large number of others called.

Gov. Wilson took lunch with Congressman Page, of North Carolina; Walter H. Page, editor of The World's Work; and Charles H. Gray, of the Baltimore Sun. In the afternoon he took an automobile ride with Mr. Edwin A. Newman, the Democratic national committee man for this district, and at 7 o'clock left for Trenton.

Find No Trace of Airship.
Paris, June 4.—The destroyers that went to sea in quest of the aeroplane reported to have been floating fifty miles off Toulon have reported that they were unable to find a trace of the machine. No aviator in France is known to be missing.

VANDALS USE PAINT.

Statue of Jefferson at Charlottesville Daubed at Night.

Charlottesville, June 4.—The bronze statue of Jefferson on the esplanade of the rotunda at the University of Virginia was smeared all over with yellow paint last night and the figures surrounding the Liberty Bell, upon which the statue is imposed, and the bell itself were disfigured with blue paint.

The large pedestal of Italian marble did not escape. On the head was placed an inverted china bowl, also colored with yellow and blue smears.

Whether students or outside vandals did the painting is not known, but the university authorities are investigating. The outrage has caused much indignation.

VOLER V. VILES SECRETLY MARRIED

Chief Clerk of Census Weds Head Waitress.

Special to The Washington Herald.
Springfield, Mo., June 4.—Following love at first sight at the Colonial Hotel, in Springfield, where he was a guest and she head waitress, Voler V. Viles, chief clerk of the Census Bureau, at Washington, D. C., whose home is at Mansfield, Mo., and Mrs. Beulah Paden were secretly married in Fort Scott, Kan.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Albert Watkins, rector of the Episcopal Church. Viles is now in Washington, where he will be joined by his bride later in June. Mrs. Viles left last night for Denison, Tex., to get her small son.

Last week, just before his return to Washington, Mr. Viles announced his candidacy for Congress for the sixteenth Congressional district of Missouri. News of the secret wedding of a week ago Saturday night, however, was too late. When a wedding certificate from Rev. Mr. Watkins addressed to Mrs. Beulah Paden Viles arrived at the Colonial Hotel, even then Mrs. Viles attempted to keep the wedding a secret, but it was too late. She at once resigned her position. Viles' first wife died last spring and was buried at Springfield.

UNIVERSITY FUNDS TAKEN BY THIEF

Deficit of $90,000 Discovered Following Cashier's Arrest.

Minneapolis, June 4.—As a result of investigation of Treasurer Arnett, controller of the University of Chicago, who has been studying the University of Minnesota financial system for the board of regents, it has been learned that the University of Minnesota has a deficit of $90,000 or $100,000 as a result of overdraws in the university current expense fund and the accounts of the university are in a condition of confusion.

Conditions at the university, revealed by Mr. Arnett's investigation, have been made public following the alleged robbery of Joseph D. Bren, university accountant, who is in jail following his story to the police that he was held up Friday in a secluded spot on the campus and robbed of $15,000 held in trust for university students.

BAUM IS BANKRUPT.

Playwright Files Petition with Small Assets.

Los Angeles, June 4.—L. Frank Baum, author of "The Wizard of Oz," "The Woggle Bug," "Father Goose," and other bits of fiction that have created laughter in many countries, filed a petition in bankruptcy in the District Court yesterday.

In the petition the liabilities are scheduled at $12,500 and the assets at $35, the latter consisting of two suits of clothing, a typewriting machine, and a book of references.

HELD AGAINST McNAMARAS.

Los Angeles, June 4.—The circumstantial confession made by John Delaney, a structural ironworker at Muskegon, Okla., to the effect that he was employed by John J. McNamara to inspect all structures being built by nonunion labor, prepared drawings of them and indicate where dynamite could be used to the best advantage in destroying them, is regarded as of great importance by the authorities here.

If substantiated it will make Delaney one of the most important witnesses against the McNamaras.

DISTRICT NEEDS HOUSE DELEGATE, CLAIM CITIZENS

Movement Indorsed by Hundreds of Taxpayers.

FAVORED BY CLAYTON

All Associations Will Advocate Proposition.

Roy C. Claffin, Author of Measure, Convinced that Nation's Capital Should Have Representative in Congress to Solve Many Perplexing Problems and Expedite Important Matters—Justice to Taxpayers.

Strongly indorsed by hundreds of taxpayers and public-spirited citizens, an organized movement has been inaugurated to have the District represented on the floor of the House of Representatives and in committees by a delegate, who could give close attention to District matters.

URGED BY CLAYTON.
Having tested the popularity of the movement, Roy C. Claffin, chairman of the committee on laws and legislation of the Park View Citizens' Association, which started the movement, will present the proposition to the Federation of Citizens' Association at its next meeting.

William McK. Clayton, president of the federation, is heartily in favor of the movement as being "a great thing for the District." While the proposition will be placed before the federation, which is preparing to introduce resolutions into each citizens' association, as well as to determine the pulse of public sentiment.

Mr. Clayton said yesterday, after reading in The Washington Herald of the resolution asking for a delegate in the House, that he is deeply gratified the movement has been started.

"It would be a great thing for the District of Columbia," said Mr. Clayton, "for it would solve many of the perplexing problems now facing the people in getting matters before Congress and in their endeavors to keep in touch with the bills being introduced. I do not presume to speak for the Federation of Citizens' Association, before it acts in the matter, but I firmly believe the federation will indorse the measure. It will undoubtedly be referred to the individual associations before the federation takes a final vote."

Mr. Claffin said last night that he expected the proposition will meet with some opposition in the District, partly through certain business associations and partly by some who believe it may involve the suffrage question.

Justice to Taxpayers.
"I am convinced the tax payers of the District generally feel strongly they are entitled to such representation as a matter of common justice and good sense," said Mr. Claffin.

"They will realize material benefits and advantages in that matter affecting the community as a whole and their sections in particular can be placed before Congress in a more representative manner, and hence with greater weight."

"A delegate on the floor of the House in committees could keep a close watch on District matters which the Commissioners have not the opportunity to do. It is my opinion that all members of Congress wish the Capital the best possible welfare, but most of them can go no further than wishing us well, because of a lack of necessary time to compile information on important questions concerning the District on which they are called to render judgment. An officially recognized delegate could form the now missing link between the District people and their governing body."

ATLAS WAS A WOMAN.

Baltimore, June 4.—Atlas, who held up the world, was a woman and not a man, according to Rev. Eugene Noble, president of Goucher College, in an address to the graduating class of that school to-day.

"This idea was given me by a sculptor," Dr. Noble explained. "I happened into his studio and saw a nearly life-size figure of a woman carved in marble; her attitude was of one supporting a great burden and against her shoulders was a great white globe. I told him I had always seen taught to believe Atlas was a man."

"That is where you are wrong," replied the sculptor, "Atlas is a woman. All the weight of the world, as I know it, is borne by woman, and it rests on her heart and on her head."

Quentin a Good Student.

Cambridge, June 4.—Quentin Roosevelt, the thirteen-year-old son of Theodore Roosevelt, has been awarded a prize at the Grotton School for being the second smartest scholar in his class. "Ugh!" said the lad to-day, in talking of his new honor. "I s'pose I was glad to win that second prize, all right, but believe me, I would rather be in football and basketball. I don't study hard. Don't believe it."

CZAR PREDICTS WAR.

Clash Between Turkey and Russia Forecast.

Sofia, June 4.—Newspapers in Cetinje print an alleged interview with Czar Nicholas, in which he is quoted as saying that war between Turkey and Russia is inevitable, in consequence of Montenegro's peril from the presence of Turkish troops on the frontier. The ministers concur, and the populace is greatly excited. All are fully armed, and if the Turks drive the Albanians into Montenegro, war will follow automatically.

Cetinje, June 4.—The Mirdites, the most powerful of all the Albanian tribes and whose attitude toward Turkey has heretofore been uncertain, have revolted. They have proclaimed Albanian autonomy and have moved to attack Alessio. The Turks are rushing troops to quell the tribe, which numbers about 10,000.

NABBED ON CHARGE OF WHITE SLAVERY

Pittsburg Man Faces Wife in Court To-day.

Fleming Bowers, twenty-eight years old, of Pittsburg, was arrested yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock by Sgt. Catts and Policeman J. W. Wittstatt and locked up at the First precinct station pending an investigation into a charge of what appears to be a violation of the white slave law.

Bowers, the police say, brought his seventeen-year-old wife to Washington several days ago and took her to a boarding house, where she was to stay for several days while he left the city ostensibly on business.

When Mrs. Bowers learned the character of the place she was to live, and the landlady had explained the situation she broke down and cried bitterly. The police were called in and Bowers' arrest followed. He was apprehended in the neighborhood.

Bowers said he wished to place her in this particular house so that she would not be without funds while he was away. Mrs. Bowers, who is pretty and looks to be little more than a child, was taken to the House of Detention last night. This morning she will face her husband in Police Court, he probably facing a charge of being a white slaver. If such is found to be the case, it will be the second offense of its kind in the District.

NO CLEW IS FOUND TO MISSING JEWELS

Detectives Work Vainly on Williams Case.

Detectives who have been working on the case of the missing jewelry of Robert Oliver C. Williams, who was killed in an automobile wreck at Autville, Md., have been unable to find a clew that would lead to the belief the jewelry was stolen from his body as it lay in the road after the accident.

Detective McNamee saw Thomas F. Murray, an undertaker, of 2011 Nichols avenue southeast, who while driving with his family the day following the accident, came upon the wreckage car. He said three men were trying to get the machine onto the road, and claimed they were employees of Williams and worked for his automobile concern in Baltimore. At that time the machine was stripped of everything.

The detectives who have visited pawnshops in the city have been unable to locate the jewelry.

MEXICO TO SELL LINES.

Reported that American Interests Will Get Possession.

Monterrey, Mexico, June 4.—It is reported in financial circles that the control of the National Railways of Mexico will soon pass out of the hands of the government, and that American interests that are closely identified with the Southern Pacific and the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad properties are the probable purchasers. The government merger system, as it is called, embraces more than 7,000 miles of road.

SCORE HURT IN RIOT.

Picnic Parties Clash Over Issue Offered a Woman.

Port Washington, N. Y., June 4.—A score of persons were injured, among whom were four policemen, two of whom are in a serious condition in the hospital as the result of a wild riot between two outing parties that were holding a picnic to-day at the Orchard Grove picnic grounds. More than three thousand people, many of whom were women, engaged in the fight.

One of the excursion parties contained 900 Italians, while the other landed from New Jersey with more than 2,000 men, women and children. All went well until the moment of departure, when one of the Italians made an insulting remark to one of the Jersey women. This was resented and in a few moments the women were being fired, blackjacks drawn, and bottles being thrown promiscuously.

The battle lasted for more than half an hour, when the police reserves were rushed to the scene and many arrests were made, but not until four of the policemen had been injured.

INVESTED WITH HIGH OFFICE.

Cardinal Blesses the Purple Robes of Monsignor Title.

CROWD AT CEREMONY

Thousands Turned Away When Church Is Filled.

Streets Filled by Curious—Dignitaries Parade—Rev. J. T. Whelan Delivers Sermon—Pastor Committed on Labor-Reward for Service Was Just-Guidance and Helpful Words Freely Given.

With a simple ceremony, Right Rev. William T. Russell was yesterday invested with the purple robes of a monsignor and domestic prelate of Pope Pius X.

The investiture was conducted by his eminence James Cardinal Gibbons prior to solemn high mass at 11 o'clock in St. Patrick's Church.

The church was packed to the doors long before the time set for the high mass. The crowds began to arrive about 11 o'clock, and when the processional began thousands of persons were being turned from the doors.

SIMPLE CEREMONY.
The ceremony of investiture was simple but impressive. The purple surplice was donned by Mgr. Russell and the robes were blessed by Cardinal Gibbons. The celebration of high mass followed, Rev. Bonaventure Cerretti, of the papal legation, being the celebrant. Rev. Charles Hart, assisted as deacon, Rev. Thomas Gallagher, as subdeacon, and Rev. W. J. Carroll, as master of ceremonies. Rev. John A. Smyth presided.

Thousands of persons, who were unable to gain admission to the church, crowded the streets prior to the ceremonies and witnessed the procession of dignitaries from the rectory to the sanctuary.

Rev. John T. Whelan, pastor of the Church of St. Mary, Star of the Sea, Baltimore, who has been a life-long friend of the Mgr. Russell, delivered the sermon. He said in part:

"The observance of the great festival of Pentecost is marked this year by features which enhance its solemnity and afford the members of St. Patrick's parish special cause for rejoicing. We are favored by the presence of our beloved cardinal, whose silver jubilee as a member of the Sacred College is matter of congratulation for all our citizens."

"During these twenty-five years, his exalted position in the church has given him ample opportunity of manifesting those qualities which are indispensable in leaders of men—in all who are concerned for the nation's welfare, the furthering of its prosperity, the framing and administration of its laws, the safeguarding of virtue in public and in private, the preservation of individual right, and the advancement of religion through respect for divine truth and obedience to divine commands."

Stands for Principle.
"Toward all these sacred and essential interests, his eminence has shown a breadth of sympathy, a clearness of vision, and a firmness in adhering to principle, which entitles him to rank as a foremost citizen not simply in dignity and office, but also in example, in the discharge of duty, in word and deed unselfishly give to country and church and God."

"On this occasion he brings a message and a token of appreciation which comes from the highest authority in the church and which is as gratifying to the cardinal himself as it must be to all who know the recipient and his worth."

His holy father, Pope Pius X., has been pleased to bestow upon your pastor a signal proof of his favor by advancing him to the position of domestic prelate. The honor thus conferred is new; the reasons for conferring it are familiar to you all—to those who are familiar with his daily ministrations, and, not less, to those who meet him in the wider sphere of common endeavor for better citizenship and for the realization of those ideals which give to our life as a nation its value and its vigor."

"If I may venture to interpret your thought, I will say, in one word, that this honor is a recognition of service. And if I should give voice to your feeling, it would be an expression of gratitude to the holy father and of deep satisfaction at his approval of your pastor's work."

"Of that service in its more conspicuous forms, as devoted to the regular discharge of priestly duty or to the pursuits of productive scholarship, or to the cause of Christian education embodied in our foremost institution of learning—of all these things you need no reminder."

Many Will Rejoice.
"Let me add only this: That among those who look to the priest for guidance or sympathy, for kindly words or helpful deeds, there are many, here and elsewhere, who will rejoice at their benefactor's promotion."

"In their name and in yours I offer Mgr. Russell sincere congratulations. With you and with them I pray that he may be permitted to develop in still larger measure his capacity for usefulness and to carry to more perfect achievement."

SENATORS INDIGNANT AT TAFT'S STATEMENT

Opponents of Canadian Reciprocity Consider Chicago Speech a Reflection on Their Honesty.

President Taft's speech at Chicago Saturday night on Canadian reciprocity, in which he charged that there was co-operation between the manufacturers of print paper and those who control the lumber supply of the United States to defeat the bill, aroused much resentment in Washington among the Senators who have heretofore opposed the measure.

Some of these Senators said last night, not for publication, however, that the President had injured the chances for passing the measure and some of them threatened that it should never pass because of the speech. Some of the Senators who have based their opposition to the bill on the ground that it would affect injuriously the agricultural industry are particularly resentful because of the President's speech, for Mr. Taft pointed out that the opposition promoted in the name of the farmer was really being inspired by other interests than those of agriculture and to serve the ends of certain manufacturing interests.

Some of the Senators who discussed the President's speech last night said that they intended to make reply to it from the floor of the Senate. Senator Bailey, who is about the only aggressive Democratic opponent of the bill, said that he had not read the President's speech carefully, but would do so later, and that he preferred to reserve whatever comment he had to make until the time came to discuss it in the Senate.

Under the present plan of dealing with the reciprocity bill, hearings will be held to-day and Tuesday and the bill will be taken up on Wednesday for consideration with a view to a report. The measure will be reported to the Senate before the end of the week, probably without amendment and also without any specific recommendations. The indications are that there will be a long and tedious debate on the bill and a vote can hardly be had on it before the latter part of July.

Under the agreement in the Senate, a vote will be taken one week from to-day on the resolution proposing a constitutional amendment for direct election of Senators. The debate on the Canadian reciprocity bill can hardly get under way until after that vote is taken. That will carry the matter over until near the middle of June. The estimates of the time that will be required to discuss the bill vary from one month to six weeks. Senator Penrose, chairman of the Finance Committee, will move to make the Canadian bill the unfinished business as soon as the resolution for direct elections has been disposed of.

The closing days of the hearings before the Finance Committee are likely to be exciting. As the sequel to the request of Senator Stone that Allen Graham, of New York, who prepared literature in opposition to the bill, appear before the committee, the opponents of the bill have insisted that representatives of the Publishers' Association be called to the stand to testify as to the methods they have employed, not only to promote sentiment for the bill, but to stifle opposition to it.

Melville E. Stone, of the Associated Press, and Herman Ridder, of the Associated Press, are expected to appear before the committee to-day. They will be grilled by the Senators who oppose the bill. The charge was made before the committee by Graham, one of the publicity men employed by the National Grange, that unfair methods were employed by the Associated Press managers and by the Publishers' Association to promote sentiment for the Canadian bill through the newspapers and to stifle opposition to it.

Graham offered to produce correspondence to prove what he charged, and his offer appears to have made an impression on the minds of the Senators who oppose the bill. They conferred with him, and then sent out requests calling Mr. Stone and Mr. Ridder.
